Kellogg College has been breaking new ground in Oxford for 26 years. Since its foundation, the College has been committed to providing the best environment and facilities for study and research, whilst also providing the opportunity for engagement, interaction and inspiration.

Our goal is to continue to develop the current College site, starting with the new College Hub building. The College Hub is to be located centrally in the grounds of the College and will be home to the Common Room and Café which will serve to unify College life and experience by bringing together the surrounding buildings and gardens.

“The mission of our College is to welcome and support part-time and full-time graduate students to promote the University’s work in life-long learning. We are an inclusive and egalitarian intellectual community, learning and researching across the disciplines. Kellogg values academic excellence, innovation and social relevance. We are flexible and responsive, and give our members a voice in shaping the future of the College.

We aim to continue to develop our College site and gardens. Key to this, is the new building. The College Hub is to be located centrally in the grounds and will be home to a Common Room and Café that will serve to unify the College community and site.”

Professor Jonathan Michie, President of Kellogg College
The Hub will transform the College site by providing:

- A new social centre at the heart of both campus and College life
- A common room with flexible social space for all members of the College including alumni and friends returning to Oxford
- A café providing an inclusive, welcoming and informal atmosphere
- Architecture which reflects and enhances the identity of the College
- A new vibrancy to the surrounding landscape and gardens

A sustainable future for the College

We are committed to sustainability. The building will be a Passivhaus, making it the first building of its kind in Oxford. The Passivhaus design approach will create a building with exceptionally low energy demands and the highest standard of occupant comfort. This design is based on the science of human comfort and heat transfer. Benefits of the Passivhaus design include a 90% saving on energy bills compared with typical buildings in the UK and excellent indoor air quality.
The College gardens are of key importance to the life of the College. They are the setting for a student’s rite of passage into Oxford life, the site of the Matriculation photo and ensuing celebrations, the site of the Graduation ceremony and many happy social occasions in between these two landmark events. There are also places for quiet study and contemplation.

We are looking to use this opportunity to restore the gardens to their natural beauty and make them an integral part of the College campus.

The Formal Garden

The Hub will create a formal lawn between it and the Dining Hall terrace, where the degree day photos are taken. This space will provide the opportunity to create colourful, vibrant borders where sun-loving plants will thrive. The wall which is west facing will be planted with pleached crab apples to link the formal garden with the dining terrace.

The Contemplative Garden

To the north, the Hub will create a quiet, ‘contemplative’ garden behind 64 Banbury Road (which transfers to Kellogg in March 2018). This space will be planted with colourful plants and beautiful foliage to give a feeling of tranquility and quiet meditation.

In both gardens, scent will be used to create a year round spectacle for the senses. This will include lilac, scented roses, rosemary, and winter loving plants.
How to give

Leave your mark on the College

There are naming opportunities associated with the College Hub and the college gardens, giving permanence to your support of the College, now and in the future. All donations of £1000 and above will be given special recognition on the Donors’ Board in the College Hub.

President’s Circle

The President’s Circle recognises the College’s major supporters. These donors are recognised on the Kellogg donor board at the entrance to the Dining Hall, and will be given special recognition on the College Hub donor wall.

1990 Club

The 1990 Club based on the year of the College’s foundation recognises those donors who make an annual commitment of £1,990 or more to the College.

Legacy Society

Should you wish to consider leaving a legacy, please contact us at development@kellogg.ox.ac.uk
Support the Campaign

Through the generosity of our alumni and friends we have already raised almost £500k in gifts and pledges for the College Hub. We are seeking to raise a further £2 million towards the total cost of the project.

This exciting development, unifying the College site, will be the first University of Oxford building to use the sustainable Passivhaus design approach. It presents a unique opportunity for supporters to help transform Kellogg.

We do recognise all donations towards the College Hub, regardless of their size, so we encourage you to contribute to what is a community project which will benefit all Kellogg members from students, Fellows, staff, Common Room and Research Members to our alumni. We thank you for your support.
